Let me be the synergist to help you enhance your business, your staff, and your communications!

I am an experienced medical communications professional with the following core capabilities and services:

Development and dissemination of clinical and scientific information through promotional or certified educational channels that is scientifically accurate, clinically relevant, and aligned with strategic goals for a wide range of healthcare professionals across a variety of therapeutic areas;

Identification and development of relationships with thought leaders to identify insight-driven clinical messages and educational gaps among healthcare professionals;

Development of peer-to-peer education utilizing adult learning principles that maximize learning and positively impact patient outcomes;

Leadership and management of customer accounts;

Consultation on establishment of effective processes and team performance

Areas of therapeutic expertise include: psychiatry, neurology, oncology, immunology, infectious disease, cardiology, women's health, and endocrinology, among others.

Prior to founding Synergist Medical Communications, I held the positions of Senior Director of Scientific Innovation at FORCE Communications, Director of Scientific Affairs at DRIVE Medical Consulting and Communications and Director of Medical Curriculum and Outcomes at ACCELMED, both divisions of FORCE Communications. I have also previously held positions in the medical education industry as a neuroscience medical liaison, senior medical liaison, manager of educational design and development, and director of medical education. My experience also includes working in an ACCME-accredited organization.

I received my Bachelor of Science degree in psychology and my Bachelor of Arts and Masters of Science degrees in molecular biology from Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis in Indianapolis, IN.

Kim Storvik
Customer Outreach Manager at Envisage Technologies LLC
January 28, 2015, Kim reported directly to Stephanie

Stephanie is a true leader, bringing strong experience in team and employee development, CME content development and strategy, and promotional content development and strategy. In her tenure in medical education, she has worked on a wide variety of projects requiring varying degrees of detail-focus, strategy, scientific knowledge, and content design, which have resulted in her being an incredibly flexible and talented team asset. Working with Stephanie is a pleasure as she is a true team player.
